Gender Responsive Budgeting in Uganda

FOWODE’s experience

Politics is too serious a matter to be left to the politicians.

Charles de Gaulle
Our Mission:

To promote gender equality in all areas of decision making.
OUR FOCUS

- We advocate for inclusive and just governance that gives women voice, choice and power.
- We nurture alternative and transformative leadership to shape a future that promotes social justice and strengthens collective power.
- We advocate against unequal power structures and lobby for public resources to equitably benefit women and men.
Gender responsive budgeting: Our Premise

All budgets are about politics. All politics is ultimately about who controls budgets.

Women, like men, have the right to equal access to the public services.

Budgets matter to women – They support their rights to health, education and a decent life.

Poor women, more than men, rely on public services because they often do not have other options.

If they have to pay for health or education, girls and women from poorer households are often the losers as money is commonly reserved for medical care and schooling for men and boys.
Our GRB Journey

• FOWODE’s Gender Responsive Budget work dates back to 1998 (Also known as Gender and Equity Budgeting)

• Years of research and advocacy saw the enactment of the Public Finance Management Act (PFMA), 2015 which requires government ministries, departments and agencies to implement mandatory gender and equity budgeting with the Equal Opportunity Commission ensuring compliance.
Why Gender Responsive Budgeting?

To raise citizens’ awareness on gender and impacts that budgets and policies have on women and men.

To change budgets and policies to promote gender equality.

To make governments accountable for gender equality through budgetary commitments.

Key steps in GRB

1. Situation analysis of women and men, girls and boys to determine their respective gender needs

2. Analysis of the policy framework to examine how policies, plans and programmes appropriately respond to the needs of women and men, girls and boys and take corrective action

3. Analysis of the budget, (including expenditures and revenues); to assess their responsiveness to priority needs of women and men, girls and boys

4. Monitoring budget implementation, to ensure allocations to gender are spent as planned

5. Assessing the impact of policy and the associated budget on women and men, girls and boys to evaluate the budget outcomes (expenditures and revenue policies) on gender gaps

The Village Budget Club Model

Started in 2009, the Village Budget Club (VBC) VBC model seeks to promote Gender Accountability by enhancing capacities of local communities to hold local governments accountable for gender responsive service delivery.

Through VBCs communities engage in planning, budgeting, and monitoring of Government programs to benefit women, men, girls and boys.
The VBC Model

1. Training of VBC members in gender responsive budgeting techniques & service delivery monitoring

2. Conduct monitoring visits to inspect service delivery of community development programs e.g. Schools or Health Centers and document findings.

3. Hold community dialogues to discuss findings from monitoring visits with the wider community and build consensus on key issues.

4. VBCs meet duty bearers and present the priorities and concerns identified by the community members and document commitments to be followed up.

5. Work with the media to increase public awareness of key policy issues.
The VBCs & Local Tax Regimes

- In the face of inadequate funding for Local Governments and conditioned funding,
- Local Governments are implementing aggressive “Local Revenue Mobilization Strategies”
- The aggressive strategies often place multiplicities of tax burden on citizens in informal / small scale trade (majority of whom are women in agribusiness and retail)
- VBCs engage local leadership during the budget-making cycle.
- Local tax proposals are discussed to assess their potential gender impact.
In the past, FOWODE work has been focused on Gender Responsive budget allocation and service delivery

WHY TAXATION NOW?

- The revenue generation / taxation side has been ignored by CSOs and governments as a means of fostering gender equality
- Taxation has the potential if not equitably implemented (equal to expenditure) to further compound inequalities, worsen economic exclusion and increase poverty

Gender Equality in taxation is a matter of fundamental human rights, particularly in the context of low-income and developing countries.

Developing Countries are raising more revenues from consumption taxes (VAT, excise).

On average, low income countries collect over four times as much revenue from VAT as from personal progressive income taxes.

Consumption taxation disproportionately affects women due to their care / family roles.

THE QUESTION: Tax for economic growth OR Tax for human well-being through economic development, poverty eradication, food security.

For sustainable economic growth and poverty reduction, taxation MUST NOT negatively affect desired outcomes in the area of gender equality.
Our previous work / success on taxation

- During the FY 2018/19 Budget formulation process, government proposed a 30% income tax on Savings and Credit Cooperative Organization (SACCOs)
- SACCOs in Uganda are mostly women dominated and especially useful for low income earners in rural communities
- FOWODE and partner NGOs mobilized women’s groups across the country and petitioned government
- Tax Proposal was dropped
- Excise Duty (Amendment) Bill, 2018 proposed to tax 1% on mobile money transaction (sending, transfer and withdrawal)
- FOWODE in partnership with CSBAG and like-minded CSOs mobilized citizens and collected over 2 million signatures
- Utilized community structures such as VBCs to sensitize citizens, persuade them to join the cause and collect signatures
- Government conceded and reduced the proposed tax to 0.5% on funds withdrawal only
Institute progressive taxes on incomes and capital based on ability to pay

Increase taxes on incomes from property and capital received by those with high incomes

Reduce tax burdens on low-income self-employed women

Eliminate inequalities in hiring, wages, promotion, and benefits
